

Timo Mühlhausen (Dipl.-Ing. (FH), MBA)

Head of Technology Management Factory Automation

Head of Technology Management and Initiative Data Driven X at Siemens Digital Industries Factory Automation. He started his career as service engineer for automotive production automation. After serving in different responsibilities such as Global Marketing Manager for distributed IO systems, Regional Manager for Italy and Greece, Head of Digital Enterprise Marketing he currently leads an international team for technology evaluation to innovate Siemens' automation portfolio. With the recent initiative Data Driven X he carries out a specific innovation approach for data driven businesses addressing the financial institutes in order to enable dynamic financial products with IoT machine data.